RECENT DEATHS SPUR OFFICIALS TO ACT

Perkins and Cropsey to Aid Inspectors in Move to End Dangers.

The Williamsburg factory fire of a week ago yesterday that resulted in the death of twelve persons has had the effect of spurring the various city and state departments to greater activity. During the week the Fire Department particularly has been unusually active in enforcing the fire drill order.

Members of the Industrial Commission who supervise the work of safeguarding factory workers will to-morrow inaugurate a programme that will hit every factory owner in the city. The commission will invoke the discretionary powers invested in it to compel the inclosing of all stairways in buildings of five stories or less in fire resisting material, and it will be aided in carrying out its orders by District Attorney Perkins and Cropsey, who are ready to proceed criminally against any owner who fails to obey.

The Tenement House Department is also pressing a more vigorous campaign for the enforcement of the tenement house law. Its inspectors as

GERMANS ACTIVE IN CENTRAL SERBIA

Kaiser's Troops Storming the Heights of Jastrebac.

[By Cable to The Tribune.]
London, Nov. 13.—With the development of the Allied offensive against the Bulgarians, which continues successful to-day, the Teutons have redoubled their efforts to cut off at least a part of the retreating main army of the Serbs.

Thus Berlin reports the capture of the passes of the Jastrebac mountains, south of Krusevac and almost due east of Nish, which in the important Ibar valley the heights on both sides of Bogotovac have been taken by storm.

As Bogotovac lies scarcely ten miles south of Kralievo, which was captured more than a week ago, it offers some idea of the stubbornness with which the Serbs are defending every foot of their territory. In the Nish, however, where prolonged resistance would afford more opportunities for envelopment, the Serbs to the east and on the north, but and the loss of the Jastrebac barrier puts practically the whole capital sector in the control of the invaders.

Battle Still On in South.
In the south the great battle in progress for the last three days from Strumitza to the neighborhood of Veles, continues to develop favorably for the Allies. According to Salonica advices, the French have advanced to within a mile and a half of Veles, while they are also within but a few miles of Babuna Pass, where a force of 5,000 Serbs has held 15,000 Bulgars at bay for more than two weeks.

Practically the whole Bulgarian west of the Vardar River are thus put in peril. Not only do they have the Serbs to the east and on the north, but the capture of Veles would directly expose their flank and put the Allies in their rear.

Between Robovo and Strumitza the French have also taken Hill 350 and Hill 519, which lie east and west of the Dojban railway and dominate it. The whole region has been cleared of Bulgarians, with the result that the route leading northward to Strumitza itself is in the possession of the French.

On the Cherna front, also, west of the Vardar and between Veles and Monastir, French progress has been of sound importance. During the last two days they have occupied Dibratze, Katedol, Terzen, Girkovo, Grusevica and South Chichevo, which practically doubles the area of territory in French hands.

Bulgars Defeated at Katchanik.
Reports that the Bulgars have reoccupied Valandovo are declared by the Allies to be untrue, although it is admitted that their shells still continue to fall on Krivolak. In a slight bombardment yesterday an ambulance was destroyed.

The Serbs also have retaken the offensive in the Supagora district, and are reported to have defeated the Bulgars at Katchanik Pass, inflicting such heavy losses on the invaders that their troops were entirely demoralized. French and British reinforcements continue to arrive at Salonica, and owing to the improvement in landing facilities that have been made, are sent ashore and dispatched to Serbia with little delay. General Monro's arrival from France is almost hourly expected.

Out of the total Serb artillery of 514 guns, Berlin asserts that 478 have already been captured by the Teutons. Included among these were French field howitzers and some Krupp cannon which had been taken from the Turks in the Balkan War. More than 200 new French cannon are also reported to have been taken.

Among the munitions left behind by the Serbs were enormous quantities of rifles, machine guns, mine throwers and searchlights, as well as ammunition, victuals, winter clothing and several thousand railroad cars and locomotives. Another report says that King Peter, ill and broken though he was, fled in an old, dilapidated automobile, which finally got stuck in the impassable mud of one of the mountain roads. The journey was completed in a country wagon.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.
The following official statement was given out in Berlin to-night:

The pursuit in the mountains is making good progress. The heights of the passes of Jastrebac, a mountain group southeast of Krusevac, have been taken by our troops. More than 1,100 Serbians fell into our hands and one cannon was captured.

Will Toast Colonial Wars.
Pictorial ceremonies will mark the twenty-second annual banquet of the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of New York, which is to be held November 15, at Delmonico's. There will be three processions in the banquet hall. Among the speakers will be James M. Beck, Charles Hitchcock Sherill and Major John D. Kilpatrick, Jr. G. N. Y.

well as the investigators of other departments have reported an absence of the tendency on the part of realty owners to light department orders that was noticeable before and during the assault by the real estate interests on the fire prevention laws last winter.

The Board of Education, through D. R. J. Snyder, its superintendent of buildings, and with the aid of Fire Commissioner Adamson, will again urge the Board of Estimate to grant the appropriation necessary for the fireproofing of stairways in thirty-five public schools. This appropriation was asked for several months ago, but the board has not acted. Mr. Snyder points out that not only the public schools but many of the city parochial schools are in a dangerous condition. Other matters of importance in safeguarding the pupils, such as additional exits and the fireproofing of present exits, Mr. Snyder said is being held up by the inactivity of the Board of Estimate.

Deputy Fire Commissioner Lamber, of Brooklyn, and his deputy chiefs during the week visited various factories and made a special inspection. Particular attention was paid to Williamsburg and Greenpoint factories, such as the huge Kaiser plants on Kent Avenue, where more than 3,000 girls are employed.

The visit to the model factory, which the average employer is enforcing the fire drill order, for the deputy and his chiefs found the signal gongs in place and the employees familiar with the method of getting out of the building without confusion or loss of time. In one or two cases where it was found the employees were not familiar with the drill a warning that a heavy fine would be levied if the rule was not put into effect immediately was given to the owner.

District Attorney Cropsey to-morrow morning will continue the questioning of witnesses at the Diamond factory fire inquest before Governor Ernest Wagner. He plans to probe deeply into the affairs of the Industrial Commission, and will then take up the matter of placing the responsibility not only for the conditions in the building, but as to the locked door described by some of the survivors as being responsible for the heavy loss of life.

SERBS RE-ENACT THERMOPYLAE

it be carried off all the honors with that dash and determination which have made him famous throughout the Balkans.

Defence of Katchanik Pass.

But not alone on the extreme northern front have the Serbians been performing deeds of valor. Nothing could have been finer than the way in which Katchanik Pass was defended by the Serbs in the face of infinitely superior numbers. This pass is the point at which the Bulgarian invasion reached its most westerly limit, and here it was that the wave broke against the Serbs. For days the enemy rolled attack after attack against the Serbs, for the possession of the pass meant an entry into Prirend, and, by reaching the Albanian frontier and cutting Serbia in two, the Teutons could make themselves masters of this important pass.

The Bulgarians suffered extremely heavy losses. Prisoners admitted that they had never expected such resistance, and officers who fell into the hands of the Serbs say that the attacks were so costly that it is practically certain they will not be renewed under present conditions. The Bulgarian forces advancing on Tetovo suffered especially severely, only a few men being left out of two regiments after one severe struggle.

In the south, as in the north and centre, the Serbs are scoring successes. The gallant little force which held Babuna Pass against a foe four times more numerous has every reason to be proud of its fine achievement. It has saved Prirend and Monastir.

Monastir's Confidence Returns.

There is a great difference between the Monastir of a week ago and the Monastir of to-day. A week ago the cannon flashes on the horizon threw the people into panic, and something like half the population left town. To-day, however, a different spirit reigns. Many of those who went have returned and relief is clearly evident on all hands. On the distant horizon the lightning of guns can still be seen, but it is known now that the Serbs are holding fast and that fear of the coming of the Bulgarians is groundless.

After the evacuation of Veles on October 12 by the Serbians the invaders met with little opposition until they came to the mountain barrier of Babuna, held by 5,000 Serbians. The Bulgars began the attack by a successful assault on Izvor, and when that was accomplished the enemy held the left bank of the Babuna River, while the Serbs clung to the right. At this time the Bulgarians were probably 15,000 strong, and another slight advance forced the Serbs, whose total force was not more than 5,000, to retreat in the direction of Abdipasha Hahn.

The enemy then brought up reinforcements amounting to 5,000 men, and on November 2 a drive toward Korset on the right was attempted. The Serbs saw the move in good time and were ready to meet it. A desperate action took place and the Bulgarians were driven back on the run, leaving 250 dead on the field.

Bulgars forced to Retreat.

As a result of this brilliant little affair the enemy were forced to fall back to Nikolim. The Serbs were enabled to advance to the height of Konjak and occupy the whole line dominating the mountains. That operation was completed late on Thursday night, and on Saturday, Sunday and Monday the Bulgarians showed no fight. It is reported here to-day that the Prirend-Krivalak route is clear of the enemy, but so far no communication has been effected along that route.

It is inspiring to see the men who have been guarding the Babuna Pass in the face of such greatly superior forces. Here is a little lieutenant explaining the position on the front. It is a post of great danger, but he says not a word of that. He has been working his guns for days, working with the deathless muscle of that primitive and pathetic Serbian song "Morava Nac" on his lips. And that is the spirit of all those gallant fellows on the Babuna heights. Often, for days at a time, they had to go on fighting with but little food, and sometimes with none for long hours at a stretch. But that has not worn out their determination. They pull their belts tighter and the daylight light is still in their eyes. You can safely write them down as the finest fighters in the world.

Nothing can describe what they have gone through in fighting against such odds during those long days. No one can ever tell the full story of how that post was held, for one cannot do justice to the defenders. To them their work now seems almost the ordinary business of life, for they have been working almost continuously since the end of 1912. But the great feat remains that 5,000 Serbs held the pass against 20,000 Bulgarians, whose artillery was also greatly superior.

To-day the guns are sounding fitfully at a greater distance, and in the very air of Monastir the breath of the relief of victory. All reports of the occupation of Veles by the French or of a junction between the French and Serbs are premature. The pressure up the Vardar Valley, however, is increasing and the effect should soon be decisive.
